IN THIS ISSUE: FIRST REPORT ON OCTOBER SURPRISE; IS THERE A FRENCH CONNECTION HERE?

DRUGS JUMP TO TOP PRIORITY IN NATION'S PROBLEMS;
INDIAN RESERVATIONS BEING MISUSED BY GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS;
MRS. BUSH VERSUS MRS. QUAYLE;
PARTIES FOR SEN. BOB DOLE AS POSSIBLE CANDIDATE FOR WHAT?
WHICH WOMEN WOULD QUALIFY FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

THE FIRST REPORT ON OCTOBER SURPRISE is scheduled to come on June 12 when the chairman of the House investigation, Rep. Lee Hamilton, D., Ind., speaks to the University of Indianapolis about two weeks before the first formal report is made to the Congress. Hamilton is a sincere hard working man but he is friendly with Vice President Dan Quayle and the two of them have mutual friends in Indiana.

It will be interesting if there is a report at all because so many blocks have been put in the way of a thorough investigation by the persons who want this story to be forgotten, mainly Presidents Ronald Reagan and George Bush. Thus people may never know the whole truth about a so-called meeting in Paris in October, 1980 when it is widely reported a deal was made between the Reagan-Bush forces and the Iran government for the U.S. to supply spare parts for American-made missiles owned by Iran, which it needed badly as Iran and Iraq were at war and Iraq appeared to be winning. The meetings in Europe were reportedly set up by William Casey, Reagan campaign chairman. It was alleged that Bush went to Paris hurriedly. He denies this but Ariel Ben Menasche of Israel who said he kept books on who went in and out the door says that Casey and Bush were there.

It was at the time highly improper for the Reagan-Bush campaign to be acting in a governmental way with Jimmy Carter sitting as President and with the U.S. policy of having nothing to do with Iran fully known. Bush reiterated at his most recent press conference that he knew of false reports that he went to Paris. Bush mentioned the type of plane, the SR7!, This is the same which pilot Gunther Russbacher, now jailed in Missouri, says he flew Bush from Paris to McGuire AFB. Another type plane was used for the flight over, alleged the pilot.

But one thing is clear. The 52 American prisoners were kept 71 more days until after the presidential election, and right after President Reagan took the oath, he asked if the hostages had been released yet, He was assured that they had. Why would Reagan have done this if there had not been an agreement with Iran? Reagan daughter Patti Davis tells about it in her new book, "The Way I See It." She realized that her father was talking about events that had taken place before he was president, while Carter was the sitting president.

THE FRENCH CONNECTION....Most people who have written about the "deal" which was to hold the hostages until after the November 1980 election so that Carter could not surprise people with a miracle and bring them home, knew that the French Intelligence agents had a full account of what happened at that meeting but kept this secret, perhaps for later use. The French could have used this file to twist arms. It is not fully known whether they did. but often Americans investigating October Surprise have come up against a blank wall because they did not have the complete French file. Why were they not talking? Could not this have been the stage for blackmail? Could there be a possible tie-up to huge U.S. Defense contracts which have gone to France?

Frank Carlucci of the U.S., one of several men in Washington who are said to be part of a secret team ruling the world, pushed for France to get the contract for the LTV missile and aircraft divisions when Martin Marietta and Lockheed of the U.S. were fighting for these. After France won, and it was realized by Congressmen that this means the French government will get the LTV research for which American taxpayers have paid all these years. France's Thomson-CSF won the missile division and the Carlyle Group which is financed by a French bank with Carlucci as vice chairman, will get the aircraft division. Carlucci is a former Secretary of Defense under Reagan. Several in Congress are now trying to pull back the sale. Proponents of the sale have been saying that to do so might involve the creditability of the U.S. in making other contracts overseas.

Hearing that H. Ross Perot was in France this spring to speak at the unveiling of the new Walt Disney funhouse in Paris, he was asked what else he did in Paris? Was he investigating further the October Surprise meeting of 1980? Ken Herman of the Austin, Tex, staff of the Houston Post wrote a negative story about Perot hinting that Perot had been trying to crack French intelligence files on October Surprise but Perot denied this in the article. Perhaps the French have more substantive designs in hugging accounts of that 1980 meeting close to their chests.

DRUGS ARE TOP OF THE LIST in U.S. crimes because these are crimes of U.S. government officials committed against other U.S. citizens. They account for the huge cash flow of money which the Federal Reserve system cannot account for that shows up in this country weekly. The belief strongly exists now that the government itself is responsible for the drug imports. Drugs are referred to in the accounts of family members of both Bush and the Clintons and some of their financial supporters in Arkansas.

A young woman colleague of Neil Bush speaks in Washington of using drugs with him at the Observatory Circle home then occupied by the Bush family when he was vice president and now occupied by the Dan Quayles. Bush himself visits friends living at Key Largo when he goes to Florida to visit his mother. He must know that this is one of the key points of entry for drugs coming into the U.S. from South America. Some of his friends there are well acquainted with the movements. Bush as a CIA official knew General Noriega of Panama was paid by the U.S. government for drugs importation. Bush in the late seventies working through the CIA designated Miami airport, Mena, Ark., Iron Mountain ranch in Texas, and points in Arizona and California as locations for fly-ins of narcotics and as export sites for guns going from the U.S. to the Contras fighting the Nicaraguan government.

Mena, Ark. was known to Clinton as a major supply base for bringing in narcotics and taking out guns and also for training guerillas from the Contras to fight Nicaragua. The shipments are reported to be still continuing at Mena, conducted with the sponsorship of the CIA with the drug shipments being transferred to sealed trucks for distribution by U.S. contractors to points in Minnesota, New Mexico and Colorado. The Internal Revenue Service, the Justice Department and the Commerce Department must know about these shipments for them to get by. Purpose of these imports is to sell the drugs and get money for the Central Intelligence Agency to pay for its many clandestine operations in this and other countries. They eat money. It takes a lot. Congress gives them $20 to $30 billion yearly and then the CIA taps funds of other agencies for help all in the name of "national security." That phrase covers a lot of needless U.S. expenditures. In addition, under a plan which Colonel Oliver North at the Reagan White House called "Project Donation," private funds are solicited and often given by rich men as in Arkansas. The state is marbled with financiers laundering drug money, according to investigators in the media.

The Internal Revenue Service follows the drug money in the South, Southwest and Midwest, according to several whistle blowers who have since lost their jobs rather than continue to see this racket. Drug money is laundered in Arkansas where some of the closest donors to Clinton are involved.

Much of the drug traffic into Florida, Arizona and California comes in on government-authorized planes at airstrips on Indian reservations. The Seminole reservation in Florida has one of the biggest operations for bringing in drugs to be sold along a trail of misery and ruin for U.S. citizens while the money derived goes to the CIA for further unnecessary gun running or other activities,

MRS. BUSH TEACHES A LESSON TO MRS QUAYLE...The Bushes' daughter, Dorothy LeBond, divorced, is about to marry for the second time a Democrat, Robert Koch, who works for House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt, a Democrat. It was not enough that Vice President Dan Quayle should decide to besmirch single mothers, but Marilyn Quayle meets Koch at a White House reception and questions him in horror about being from a Democratic background. Mrs. Bush enters the scene, sizing up the situation and tells Mrs. Quayle, Marilyn, we had a hard enough time getting Bobby to come here tonight. He did not want to do it. If you want to beat up on him, do it in your own home, not at my house. (Not direct quotes but essentially what was learned.)

DOLE IS BEING FAVORED...One of the best kept secrets among Republicans in Washington is that Sen. Bob Dole, Republican leader of the Senate minority, is being honored by cloutish conservative Republicans with parties. These are party members who are unhappy with President Bush. What do they think they can do? This is causing questions. Is this show of affection for Dole meant to be "just in case" for a substitute nominee for President or Vice President?

WOMEN VICE PRESIDENTS FOR ROSS PEROT...When Ross Perot was confronted with complaints from women feminists about reports that he had chosen Jeane Kilpatrick, right wing professor and columnist, Perot replied that "I have not even spoken to her." That caused many women to begin thinking that they ought to prepare for him a list of qualified women. Women from several different directions suggested first Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D, Colo., chairman of several sub-committees in Congress, former Rep. Lindy Boggs, Lady Bird Johnson, widow of the president, Another whom women of both political parties agreed would be fully qualified is Elizabeth Dole, wife of Senator Bob Dole, R., Kan., and now the president of the American Red Cross. Others were Sen. Barbara Mikulski, D., Md., Elizabeth Holtzman, New York, now a candidate for U.S. Senate and formerly a member of Congress, Marian Wright Edelman, who heads the Children's Defense Fund. Many would like to see Texas Gov. Ann Richards in this slot but that would be impossible since she and Perot are both from the same state and the law forbids that both president and vice president come from the same state.

PEROT LOOKING AT THE JOHN TOWER AND JOHN HEINZ DEATHS.... The deaths of the two public figures by freak airplane accidents is causing some questioning in the spy world. Both men were reported to be ready to talk about inside happenings which they were familiar with. H. Ross Perot, independent candidate for president, is said to be aware of information gathered about both deaths. He is reported to have said he would not like to see this happen to him. Tower was reported to be unhappy about his life, at this time, about his latest book not doing well and the thought that he actually got little from the presidents and Congress for his years of political involvement. He is understood to have had on his person a paper from an official who knew the Iran-Contra question well and who was nullifying assertions of innocence from the Reagan-Bush administration. That paper was reported taken from his briefcase when found after the accident. Heinz who had spent most of his time as a senator from Pennsylvania helping the old, the frail and the sick had also learned about CIA activities and was ready to talk, so it is reported.
